Some Famous Artworks

Pieter Bruegel the Elder has created as many as three famous art pieces based on a popular biblical storyline. According to the artist's vision, it is not language barriers that are to blame for the failure that befell the construction, but mistakes and poor-quality building materials. At first glance, the huge structure seems strong enough, but upon closer inspection, the secret of the painting is revealed. You can see this artwork in the Kunsthistorisches Museum in Vienna.

3.The Garden of Earthly Delights by Hieronymus Bosch (1500-1510)

The Garden of Earthly Delights, the best art of all time, is the most monumental triptych by Hieronymus Bosch, painted by the artist between 1500 and 1510, currently located in the Prado Museum in Madrid. The triptych is literally overflowing with figures, fantastic constructions, monsters, caricatures of reality, which will take at least a month to examine in detail. The phantasmagoric surrealistic world created by Bosch is absolutely incompatible with any of the existing religions.

<h3>4. Impression, Sunrise by Claude Monet (1872)</h3>

The name of this painting Impression, soleil levant with the light hand of the journalist L. Leroy became the name of the artistic movement. The painting was painted from life in the old outport of Le Havre in France. Today, this iconic work of the impressionist Claude Monet adorns the <ins>Musée Marmottan Monet in Paris.</ins>

5.The Starry Night by Vincent van Gogh (1889)

Van Gogh's Starry Night is one of the most most famous paintings in post-impressionist culture. It is currently on display at the Museum of Modern Art in New York. Unlike most of Dutch artist's paintings, Starry Night was painted from memory. At that time, Van Gogh was in the hospital of Saint-Remy, tormented by fits of madness.
